This image shows a piece of aged, yellowish-tan graph paper with a grid of green lines. The paper is marked with several vertical red lines that create columns of varying widths. At the top, there are two horizontal red lines. The paper is heavily damaged, with several pieces of translucent, aged tape applied to it. One large piece of tape covers the bottom-left corner, and another long, narrow piece is placed horizontally across the lower-middle section. The bottom edge of the paper is jagged and torn, while the right edge is also irregular. The paper is set against a plain white background.
